

The Great Friend And Other Translated Poems

Sonnet: A Lost Friendship

You were my friend then: now almost stranger!
Our friendship appeared once very glorious;
What happened meantime, gives me great anger;
Our friendship no longer remains serious.

Fool you were, to be misled by others,
Who drove a giant wedge 'midst our friendship;
Cut off is our friendship, which me bothers;

A nadir has come in our relationship.

What years of intimacy have been lost?
You've been foolish, very much on your part;
Our friendship today is just but a ghost;
Won't your eyes see the true love in my heart?

Dear friend however, you can't be my foe;

I hope that our friendship, blossoms once more!
